

Boss Babe Academy is live.

A fast, funny, cinematic launch film where every past version of you gets the news at the same moment, and drops everything to get there. It should feel like a release, not a course ad.

WHAT WE'RE BORROWING FROM YOUR REFERENCE

Why that video works

Your reference was made with Seedance 2.5 and uses the exact trick your script needs: one person, kept identical across very different outfits and rooms. These are the four things we'll carry over.

The phone moment

The news lands on a phone, and the whole story starts from that. That's your group-chat opener.

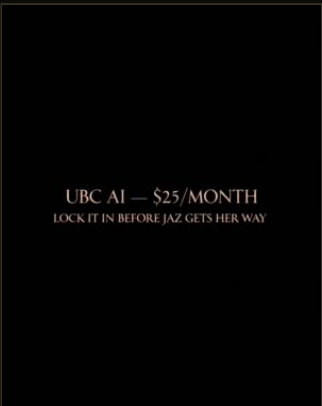

Big reaction close-ups

Tight framing and wide eyes, held for a beat. That's where the comedy comes from.

Same face, new world

The wardrobe, hair and room change while the face stays locked. That's the whole premise of your video.

A quiet end card

A black screen with small serif type. It makes the brand feel expensive. We'll do yours in gold.

THE CAST

Five Destinys, one face

Each version gets its own reference sheet (outfit, hair, makeup, room and lighting) so she looks the same in every shot she appears in. You approve all five before any video is made.

0:00-0:04 The group chat

Extreme close-up of the phone. The chat is titled DESTINY'S GROUP CHAT, bubbles pop in, and the music drops on "Boss Babe Academy."

0:04-0:09 Bottle Girl at the club

She's counting cash in the VIP section, glances at her phone and freezes. Then she grabs her purse, and the camera whips with her as she leaves.

0:24-0:30 The rush montage

Cut on the beat

Whoosh transitions

6-7 short clips

0:30-0:38 The arrival

Doors open on the penthouse. Current Destiny is already there, polished, confident and waiting. The four past versions stop and stare at her.

BOTTLE GIRL DESTINY

"So you finally did it?"

CURRENT DESTINY

"I finally did it."

Multi-character shot

Slow push-in on her smile

Music pulls back

Getting several versions of you in one frame is the hardest shot. It's built from separate generations of each version and composited, so every face stays accurate.

0:38-0:43 The why

Close on Current Destiny as her voiceover plays. A soft, emotional beat, then cut to black.

CURRENT DESTINY · VO

"I built Boss Babe Academy for every version of me that had the money... but didn't have the information."

Golden-hour key light

Piano or strings sting

0:43-0:47 End card

Gold serif type on black: BOSS BABE ACADEMY, then NOW OPEN, then the line "The academy I wish I had while I was becoming her."

How I build your AI twin

Everything I make for this video is saved and reused, so every video after this one is faster to produce and looks consistent with the first.

01 Collect your assets

You send 10–15 photos and a short voice recording (the checklist is at the end of this plan). If you'd like, the Higgsfield training you've already done can be used as a starting point.

02 Create your character reference sheet

From your photos I generate a master sheet of you: front, three-quarter and profile views, a range of expressions and a full-body shot. Then I make one sheet for each of the five versions, with the same face and that version's wardrobe and hair.

You approve these before any video is generated. This is the step that protects the likeness.

Higgsfield image models · 4K stills

03 Lock you in as a Higgsfield element

The approved sheets become a saved character element inside Higgsfield. Every scene uses that element, so your face, skin tone and features don't drift between shots, and it stays ready for future videos.

Higgsfield Elements / character reference

04 Generate the keyframes

I create one still frame for each shot in the storyboard, with the right version of you in the right room under the right lighting. You see the whole film as stills first, while changes are still quick and cheap.

05 Animate with Seedance 2.5

Each keyframe is animated inside Higgsfield with Seedance 2.5, the same model behind your reference video. Prompts are timed beat by beat (the look, the freeze, the grab, the exit), so the acting lands the way the script reads.

06 Clone your voice and lip-sync

Your recording becomes a professional voice clone in ElevenLabs. I generate each line with the right energy (screaming, sarcastic, relieved, emotional) and sync it to your mouth movements. HeyGen is kept as a backup for any talking-head close-ups that need extra-precise lip-sync.

07 Edit, sound and finish

I cut the film to the music, build the group-chat screen and the gold titles, then add sound effects (phone buzz, whooshes, club ambience), a black-and-gold color grade and captions. You get a 9:16 master, plus 4:5 and 1:1 versions if you want them.

08 Review and revise

You watch the draft and tell me what to change. Because your character and voice are already locked, fixes are quick and won't change how you look or sound.

ACCURACY TARGETS

How close to you it gets

Face likeness, after the reference sheet is approved 99%

Voice, from the scripted 30–60 second recording 95%

Voice, from casual or noisy audio ~85%

Voice cloning depends on the recording you send. Reading the paragraph I sent you, in a quiet room, is the biggest thing you can do to make it sound like you.

Your voice clone is included in the full package.

You can also order it on its own for a one-time setup fee. Either way it's made once and reused in every future video at no extra cost.

TIMELINE

About one week

Day 1–2 Reference sheets for all five versions → your approval

Day 2–3 Voice clone and storyboard keyframes

Day 3–5 Seedance 2.5 animation and lip-sync

Day 6–7 Edit, sound, grade and first draft delivered

Revisions follow the draft. The clock starts once all your assets are in.

TO START

What I need from you

- ☐ 10–15 clear photos of your face: front, both sides, three-quarter, smiling and neutral, in natural light, with no filters
- ☐ Your voice recording: the paragraph I sent, 30–60 seconds, in a quiet room
- ☐ Any real photos from each era (club, restaurant, salon) if you'd like the looks to match your real past
- ☐ 2–3 full-body photos so your height and proportions are right
- ☐ Brand assets: your Boss Babe Academy logo, fonts and exact gold color, if you have them
- ☐ Your call to action: a website, handle or "link in bio" line for the end card
